Oliver in Blossom Meadow

One sunny morning, Oliver Fox skipped through Blossom Meadow. Pink, yellow, and blue flowers grew everywhere. Oliver loved to smell them. He felt happy. He saw his friend, Pip Sparrow, on a branch. Pip looked very sad. Her little head was down low. Oliver stopped to say hello.

Pip is Upset

'Hello, Pip! Why are you so sad?' Oliver asked softly. Pip chirped quickly. 'Oh dear! Oh no! It's gone! My favourite, shiny, round...' Pip flapped her wings fast. Oliver could not understand her. 'Wait, Pip,' he said. 'Please speak slowly. I want to help you.'

Listening to Clues

Pip took a deep breath. 'I lost my shiny pebble,' she said slowly. 'It's my favourite one. I found it yesterday. I was playing near the big pink flowers. Then I flew to the tall green grass. Now it is gone!' A tear rolled down Pip's tiny cheek. Oliver listened carefully.

Searching Together

Oliver thought for a moment. 'You played near the big pink flowers first,' he said. 'Then you went to the tall green grass.' Pip nodded. 'Yes, that's right!' Oliver looked closely at the ground. He walked slowly. His clever amber eyes looked for something shiny. 'Let's solve it together!' he said.

A Happy Find

Near the big pink flowers, Oliver saw a sparkle! 'Look, Pip!' he said. It was Pip's shiny pebble! It was hiding under a small leaf. Pip flew down fast. She picked up her pebble with her beak. 'Thank you, Oliver!' she chirped. 'You listened to me very well!' Oliver smiled. He was happy to help his friend.
