A Twinkling Night

It was evening in Moonlight Meadow. Barnaby Bunny looked up. The sky was turning dark blue. Tiny, bright stars began to pop out. They twinkled high above him. Barnaby loved the stars. They looked like little shiny diamonds.

A Little Bit Wiggly

Barnaby felt a little bit wiggly inside. He had played all day long. His paws felt like dancing. But soon it would be time for sleep. How could he feel calm now? He wanted to rest his sleepy eyes.

Remembering Mama's Words

Barnaby sat down on the soft grass. He remembered his Mama Bunny's words. 'When you feel wiggly, look at the stars,' she would say. 'Then take a big, slow breath.' Barnaby tried to do just that. He closed his eyes gently.

Slow and Steady Breaths

He took a deep breath in. He counted, 'One, two, three.' Then he let the air out slowly. He did it again. 'One, two, three.' The air felt cool. He imagined his wiggles leaving with each breath. Barnaby kept breathing slowly.

Sweet Dreams Begin

Soon, Barnaby felt much calmer. His paws did not want to dance anymore. His eyes felt sleepy. The stars seemed to sparkle just for him. He whispered, 'Sweet dreams begin with a smile!' He snuggled into his soft bed. Barnaby was ready for sleep.
