Penny's Playtime Water Break

Penny's Playtime Water Break

Little Stories. Big Lessons.

A Sunny Play Day

Penny Penguin was at Snowy Shores on Saturday. The sun shone bright and the air felt cool. She loved to build big snow castles there. Penny rolled a very large snowball. Then she stacked it high with smaller ones. Her flippers moved quickly, building fast. "Healthy habits make every day fun!" she said. She felt strong and happy as she played.

Penny's Playtime Water Break

Little Stories. Big Lessons.

Feeling a Little Tired

Penny kept playing for a long, long time. She made tall towers and strong castle walls. The sun felt warmer on her black feathers now. Penny started to feel a little bit tired. Her orange beak felt a tiny bit dry inside. She slowed down her building, feeling less zip. "Hmm," Penny thought, "I feel a bit sleepy now."

Penny's Playtime Water Break

Little Stories. Big Lessons.

Remembering a Healthy Habit

Penny stopped playing in the soft snow. She remembered her own happy catchphrase. "Healthy habits make every day fun!" she thought. What healthy habit did she forget today? Penny looked at her strong flippers. She thought about all her morning play. "Ah!" Penny suddenly remembered something big. She had not drunk any water all morning!

Penny's Playtime Water Break

Little Stories. Big Lessons.

A Cool, Refreshing Drink

Penny went quickly to her little snow home. She opened her small blue water bottle with her beak. The water looked so cool and refreshing inside. Penny took a big, long drink, "Gulp, gulp!" Then she took another happy gulp. "Ah," she sighed. That felt so good and fresh! She felt the cool water giving her energy back.

Penny's Playtime Water Break

Little Stories. Big Lessons.

Happy and Strong Again

Penny felt much better now. Her energy came back, hop and skip! She went back to her big snow castle. Penny added the very last snowflake. It was the best castle she had ever built! "Drinking water helps me play all day!" she said happily. Penny smiled, feeling strong and very happy inside.