A Walk in Sunny Forest

Toby Turtle walked in Sunny Forest. The morning sun felt warm. He saw green leaves and pretty flowers. "Slow and steady discovers wonders!" he said. Toby liked to look closely. Then he heard a little "Chirp! Chirp!" It was Pip Sparrow. Pip looked very worried.

Pip's Problem

"Oh, Toby!" chirped Pip. "My softest feather for my nest is stuck!" She pointed to a thorny bush. A fluffy white feather was tangled deep inside. "I tried to pull it. But it just went deeper," Pip said sadly. She needed that feather for her cozy nest.

Toby's Thought

Toby saw the feather. He knew pulling hard would not help. "Let us look carefully, Pip," Toby said. He slowly moved closer to the bush. Toby looked at the feather and the tiny thorns. He thought about how to set it free. He remembered his favourite saying.

A Gentle Touch

Toby used his smooth blue-green flipper. He very gently held a tiny thorny branch. He moved it just a little bit. Zip! The fluffy white feather came out! "You did it, Toby!" Pip chirped happily. Pip carefully picked up her soft feather.

Happy in the Forest

Pip gave Toby a happy chirp. "Thank you, friend!" she said. She flew off to make her nest cozy. Toby smiled. He felt good inside. Being gentle helps keep nature safe and happy. The Sunny Forest felt calm and kind.
