

Toby Turtle and the Rain Puddles

Toby Turtle and the Rain Puddles

Little Stories. Big Lessons.

A Calm Morning

Toby Turtle was by Crystal Lake. The morning was fresh and cool. He watched small green plants grow near the water. Tiny insects buzzed gently. "Slow and steady discovers wonders!" Toby said with a soft smile. He loved watching nature awaken. Everything felt calm and full of life. He felt happy to be there.

Toby Turtle and the Rain Puddles

Little Stories. Big Lessons.

Rain Begins to Fall

Soon, the sky turned a dark grey. Big clouds filled the air. Drip, drop! A single raindrop fell onto Toby's shell. Then more came down. The rain grew stronger and stronger. It began to pour over Blossom Meadow and the valley. Toby quickly moved under a big leaf. He watched the rain fall.

Toby Turtle and the Rain Puddles

Little Stories. Big Lessons.

Plants in Trouble

The rainwater made many small rivers. These little rivers rushed past the small plants. Toby saw something important. The rushing water was washing away loose soil. It was taking the tiny plants with it. Oh dear, the little plants could get washed away! Toby knew he had to think fast.

Toby Turtle and the Rain Puddles

Little Stories. Big Lessons.

Toby's Clever Idea

Toby thought for a quiet moment. He had a very good idea. He used his strong blue-green flippers. He gently pushed soft mud to make little walls. His hard, teal-green shell helped push the soil too. He made the water flow safely around the plants. Toby worked carefully and slowly. He wanted them to be safe.

Toby Turtle and the Rain Puddles

Little Stories. Big Lessons.

Nature is Safe!

Soon, the heavy rain stopped. The clouds moved away. The warm sun peeked out again. Toby looked at the plants. They were all safe and sound! The small mud walls had worked perfectly. "Slow and steady discovers wonders!" Toby smiled happily. He felt very good about helping nature. He felt calm and proud.